Sustainability Policy Grand Hotel Huis ter Duin

Grand Hotel Huis ter Duin is determined to include sustainable and socially responsible practices into their business policies. In partnership with EarthCheck, Grand Hotel Huis ter Duin is actively providing their guests with the most energy, environmentally, and socially conscious stay.

Grand Hotel Huis ter Duin is located on the dunes of Noordwijk aan Zee and has 230 luxurious rooms, 20 suites, and 4 penthouses. With their meeting rooms and event halls, it provides a unique location for many different types of events. The hotel is one of the few five-star hotels that is still owned privately. It is a member of the international hotel group Preferred Hotels & Resorts. Besides accommodation, the hotel has several food & beverage outlets, a Michelin star restaurant, and spa facilities such as a pool.

At Grand Hotel Huis ter Duin, we understand that the choices in our business operations have an impact on the environment and society. Therefore, we proudly work to fit the standards in line with the EarthCheck Company Standard.

Management is determined to make yearly changes in terms of sustainability. This happens through annual independent Benchmarking Assessments. The team of Grand Hotel Huis ter Duin strives to minimise the company's carbon footprint by implementing different sustainable initiatives. These initiatives do not only aim to improve performance, but also to improve the use of energy and water, and to minimise waste production.

The hotel will actively follow all laws and regulations to conform to the highest international demands. A Green Team has been appointed who are responsible for maintaining sustainable practices and discovering new initiatives to further improve the company.

Grand Hotel Huis ter Duin pays special attention to creating local employment opportunities and currently works with local suppliers and products. These partnerships with suppliers will follow the Fair Trade principles.

Management encourages all employees of Grand Hotel Huis ter Duin to voice their thoughts on sustainability and to share them with guests, suppliers, and all those involved with the hotel.
